Key Takeaways for Employers & Employees

- Large-group fully insured plans (101+ employees): Once effective, must cover infertility treatments up to 3 egg retrievals and unlimited embryo transfers, with parity in cost sharing .
- Small-group fully insured plans (≤ 100 employees): Must offer such infertility coverage via riders; coverage is optional to include .
- Self-funded or ERISA plans: Not subject to SB 729 mandates .
- Religious employers and certain groups (like Medi-Cal, CalPERS until 2027) are exempt.

What You Should Do

1. Effective date shifted to January 2026.

2. Check your plan type:

- Large-group, fully insured: Expect automatic inclusion of infertility benefits at renewal.
- Small-group: Review plan options to include an infertility rider.
- Self-funded: SB 729 likely won't apply; voluntary coverage remains an option.

Carrier

Updates

In SOB's plan names will include 'wINF', and updated ER application is coming January 1, 2026.

Diagnosis and treatment of underlying infertility causes are covered in all plans. Additional coverage is available with optional rider. Costs may change.

LG: Any increase in plan premiums will take place in 2026 depending on the group's population and specific plan designs. Groups that already renewed with a July 1, 2025, to December 31, 2025, effective date with originally mandated fertility benefits will see an adjusted rate. Coverage details are currently being reviewed by the Department of Managed Health Care (DMHC). Following approval, plan documents such as EOCs and SOB's will be updated and distributed accordingly.

SG: Customers that chose to offer coverage under SB 729 will see coverage changes take effect upon new enrollment or renewal.

The Department of Managed Health Care has determined that products offered through the CaliforniaChoice Program are not required to include options covering infertility benefits, as employer groups may access such options directly from the health plan.

If you offer infertility benefits to your employees, all health insurance plans available to your employees will include infertility benefits. If you choose not to offer infertility coverage to your employees, the health insurance plans available to your employees will not include infertility benefits. Previously, infertility coverage guidelines were based on the number of eligible employees and the selected product (HMO, PPO, etc.)

Two SBCs per plan now available (one with infertility, one without). When the IVF/fertility rider is needed for small groups, it is added at a group level to all members/plans.

LG: Customers renewing between July and December 2025, the benefit will be included as part of the renewal. As a contract renews and SB 729 coverage is included, this expanded benefit will act as a benefit reset. A covered member will be eligible for SB 729 services, regardless of whether the member has accessed or exhausted any previous supplemental fertility services coverage.

SG: All existing employers and brokers with INF plans, both ACA-metal and grandfathered, will receive a one-time email notification informing them of the benefit enhancements at time of renewal, beginning mid-June (pending DHMC approval).

Infertility/Fertility requirements under SB 729, effective 7/1/25, do not apply to MediExcel Health Plan given its licensure under the Knox-Keene Act, Section 1351.2

The ART C rider will no longer be offered. Plans will now be available with or without Infertility, built into the plan designs, available for all group sizes. New INF SOB's are available on carrier website.

LG: UnitedHealthcare has designated infertility, including IVF as a Benefit Standard effective 7/1/2025 for large fully insured groups situated in CA.

SG: It will be available only if purchased. The extraterritorial coverage requirement is delayed until January 1, 2026.
